Phoenix Goodyear Airport Adds Services in Time for Super Bowl

Goodyear, AZ -- Private and corporate pilots have new amenities available at Phoenix Goodyear Airport - and just in time for the Super Bowl. Sun Western Flyers has opened a new facility at Phoenix-Goodyear Airport.

Sun Western Flyers brings a wide variety of services to the pilots of private planes and corporate jets in its new "mini-terminal" at Goodyear. Its primary service is aircraft fueling. Other services include a lounge, weather equipment for pilots, courtesy car service for pilots, phones and computer access. There is even a 56-inch, wide-screen television with theater-style seating in the lounge. Located in the main terminal building at Phoenix-Goodyear Airport, Sun Western also has a pilot shop that carries navigational charts, books, shirts, hats, headsets and other items specific to the needs of pilots.

The opening of the new "Fixed Base Operator" comes at a very opportune time as it will provide another facility in the West Valley for owners/operators of private aircraft when they come for the Super Bowl. With the big game being played in Glendale this year, numerous private aircraft are expected to bring fans and officials to the West Valley. "Sun Western Flyers will provide increased customer service to private pilots and business customers flying corporate aircraft and jets into Goodyear," said Barney Helmick, Manager of Phoenix-Goodyear Airport. "With the recent high economic growth rate in the West Valley, bringing a business like this to Goodyear makes a lot of sense."
