INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

The Phoenix City Council established the Phoenix Office of Arts and Culture Public Art Program in 1986 to help create a more beautiful and vibrant city. The program is funded through an ordinance that allocates one percent of the Phoenix Capital Improvement Program to enhancing the design of public buildings, infrastructure and spaces. In the past 28 years, it has created more than 180 projects and become a national innovator by involving artists in unique collaborations with other design professionals to design public buildings and spaces. The projects range from new parks, community centers and canal trails, to bridges, streetscapes, overpasses, transit centers, recycling centers and other key infrastructure.

Phoenix public art has garnered numerous awards for design excellence, including two Design for Transportation Awards from the U.S. Department of Transportation and the National Endowment for the Arts, numerous Valley (recently renamed Arizona) Forward Association Environmental Excellence Awards, including the 2001 President's Award, and other local and national recognition. The Public Art Program has brought positive national and international media attention to the City of Phoenix through articles in The New York Times, Newsweek, The Wall Street Journal, Art in America, The Atlantic Monthly and Landscape Architecture, among others.

Each year, the Phoenix Office of Arts and Culture works with funding City departments and the Mayor and City Council to develop the annual Public Art Project Plan that identifies capital improvement projects in all areas of Phoenix that offer the greatest opportunity for artist involvement and public accessibility. The plan is presented to the Mayor and City Council for review and approval. The total budget for each project includes funds to contract for design, fabrication, installation and project administration. Art projects, like other public works, are funded in part through the sale of City-issued bonds. The projects are scheduled to be in step with the City's CIP bond program prioritizations.

For each new project, artists are recommended by a panel that includes artists, arts professionals, staff from the funding City department and representatives of the community where that project will be located. The panel reviews applications submitted in response to a Call to Artists. Project architects and City staff may serve as non-voting advisors to the panel. The panel bases its recommendations of artists for projects on the quality of past work, his or her suitability for the project, and evidence of the artist's ability to work well with the community and other design professionals. The panel's recommendation must be reviewed by the Phoenix Arts and Culture Commission, a volunteer citizen advisory board, and approved by the Mayor and City Council before the artist can begin work.

The FY 2014-19 Public Art Project Plan includes the following types of public art projects:

The Phoenix Office of Arts and Culture has developed the FY 2014-19 Public Art Project Plan with input and assistance from the Mayor and City Council, City residents, artists, funding City departments, and the Phoenix Arts and Culture Commission.

1. Design Team Projects

Placing artists on design teams to collaborate with architects, landscape architects, engineers, and community members to plan major capital construction projects. Design team projects may result in art elements that are constructed as an integral part of new infrastructure, stand-alone elements built and installed by the artist, or a combination of both.

2. Site Specific Commissions

Artists design and fabricate artwork or artistic enhancements designed for specific locations that reflect the history, use or sense of community for the project site. Site specific commissions may be incorporated into new construction or existing public facilities.

3. Purchase of Existing Artwork

The City maintains an extensive portable works collection that includes approximately 1,000 works of art displayed in more than 20 public buildings and at The Gallery @ City Hall.

4. Temporary Commissions

Temporary commissions include a range of short-term projects that provide professional development for artists and that respond to selected locations or opportunities. Temporary projects may include media commissions, temporary sculpture, changing displays, banners, or other displays for a limited time.

5. On-Going Integrated Projects

The City has commissioned a number of artist-designed amenities that may be integrated with new construction or renovation. On-going projects include opportunities such as display banners that are periodically changed to provide new content.

6. Artwork Refurbishment

The City must periodically refurbish public artwork that is part of the City's collection. Sometimes it is necessary to modify existing artworks to adjust to changing site conditions or to renew the appearance of existing artworks that have been exposed to the elements. These modifications go beyond routine artwork maintenance activities.

7. Master Planning

The City periodically develops public art master plans to determine the best opportunities for incorporating art into public projects. Such master plans often recommend specific projects or series of projects, and where they should be sited to achieve the greatest public benefit.
